

Fifteen Haiku

Gary Hotham

Fifteen Haiku

Gary Hotham

otata's bookshelf
2017

FIFTEEN HAIKU
Copyright © 2017 Gary Hotham
otata's bookshelf
<https://otatablog.wordpress.com>

Fifteen Haiku

The Louvre
one of the faces in the crowd Mona Lisa

autumn's edge
no telling one cricket
from the other

summer cares
the carousel's rider less horses race to the music's end

after Christmas
burnt out colors
in a string of lights

last night's rain
our grandson shapes
the spring mud

at the stop light
light that goes
anywhere

sunset space
more than one crow
to hear

lights spreading out the city the castle built before electricity

election day
trickle down rain finding a trickle

the path's cross
yesterday's fallen leaves with today's

our grandson's one breath dandelion seeds float
free

after the doctor visit
growing old
with the news

large coffee morning

--

rain beads where it can't sink

on holiday
sand shaping
every footstep

loitering
the rain needs
our time

